Section Fall Meeting

November 19–20, 2010
Washington, DC

Every CLE presentation at any Section meeting is the product of a committee and its members. Committees set the agenda and select the speakers for the program(s). Program materials are shared over the listserves, meetings are opened via conference call to a worldwide audience, and special updates and information are broadcast exclusively to committee members. Involvement in any committee will develop lasting professional relationships with other business lawyers. It is important to note, that Section committees also offer a strong community for those that do not have the time to actively participate in the committee's activities and projects. Simply joining a committee offers access to the latest developments in that area. Even if you cannot attend the Spring Meeting, committee membership brings you a whole new level of exposure to the Section's content and activities. Join the committee in your specialty area today so you don't miss a thing. Committee membership is FREE with Section membership; and whether you are a member of the Section or not, it is quick and easy to join a committee through the Section Web site. Go to www.ababusinesslaw.org.

The Section had a record-breaking attendance in Washington for its Fall Meeting! To find print and audio program materials from the meeting, go to the Program Library found within the Meetings Portal at www.ababusinesslaw.org. A few weeks before the Spring Meeting, program materials will be available to view and print out as well.

"I became involved in the Banking Law Committee in the mid-1980s, and was immediately impressed with the friendly, open atmosphere that encouraged active participation. My practice included securities and bank regulatory matters for all kinds of financial institutions and their boards of directors. I enjoy participating in the substantive Section committees for the insights I derive from others who have a different perspective than I do to the issues that are being discussed."
